Today Councilmen Francis Whitaker and Eben Whittlesey accompanied City Clerk Larry Rose to Soledad Correctional Facility. Object of the trip was to see if the facility's woodworking shops can provide suitable new individual tables for councilmen in the council chambers at city hall. The new tables will replace the present large library-type tables which crowd the council's dais.

X X X

Renovations in the council chambers at city hall include a New Year's present for the press. Next Wednesday evening, 7:45 o'clock when newsmen gather for the first city council meeting of 1962, they will find that the former unpainted plywood panel, provided as a news desk, has been stained to harmonize with the front of the council dais. So has a similar unpainted panel at which sit the police and fire chiefs and the street commissioner. But the back views of the press and Police Chief Clyde Klummann, Fire Chief Robert Smith and Street Commissioner William Askew Jr., will still be presented unchanged to city council audiences. They'll hide the improved desks, too.

City Hall will be closed on New Year's Day. Tuesday evening the forestry commission will meet. January 10 the planning commission will have an adjourned meeting at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mike Mosolf Signs NFL Pro Contract With Dallas Team

Carmel's own Mike Mosolf, a senior at the University of Idaho and a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mosolf, has it signed and sealed—a contract with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

The pro contract means that Mike is, as far as anyone can recall, the only Carmel High School graduate ever to achieve the status of professional football player. Mike, who was first string quarterback for the Idaho Vandals this fall, will be a halfback for the Cowboys. In former years he played for Carmel High and Monterey Peninsula College.

Before resuming his studies and in good time setting out on what looks to be a career with a brilliant future, Mike is spending the holidays with his parents and his sisters, Susan and Pat, and brothers, Timmy and Terry, at the Mosolfs' Mission Fields home.

Novelist Ovid Demaris Exposes Underworld In Books—Makes Crime Pay

By RAYLYN PENNEY

Remember where Dante went to see Vergil? Well, we went Dante one better in the rough game of oneupmanship. We saw Ovid and we never left home.

This Ovid, however, lives in Carmel and writes novels instead of Metamorphoses. He is not a Roman, although sometimes his writing (and his conversation, too) is quite poetic.

And one of the pleasantest things about Ovid Demaris is that he takes all nonsensical remarks about his name—he's heard quite a few, of course—with excellent grace.

In his business, he says, it's better to have people talking about your name than not; a name is an asset. Publishers of paperback books like to fall into the habit of depending on and buying the products of a prolific author as much as the author likes to be sought after.

Author of 16 books, 13 of them fiction and three of them factual, Demaris came into the writing profession by a circuitous route which included working as a wire service reporter, teaching high school and serving as copy chief for the Los Angeles Times advertising department.

Nor is Ovid a nom de plume for Demaris, who moved here in September from Los Angeles. It's his own, bestowed by parents of French descent who used the French spelling, Ovide, to match the Gallic surname of Desmarais.

But for writing purposes Demaris, who is among other things an admirer of Ernest Hemingway, pared away a few letters in favor of the simpler form, just as the master himself pared away clutter in the language wherever he found it.

TREE TOUR

City councilmen will consider four matters around town on their January tree tour meeting Tuesday afternoon after convening at City Hall at 4:00 o'clock.

On Eleventh Avenue between Scenic Road and San Antonio Street, the council will consider a P.G.&E. Company request to set a utility pole in a pathway approximately 80 feet west of San Antonio.

At the northeast corner of Lincoln Street and Ninth Avenue, councilmen will decide whether or not Mrs. H. M. Tol-free may trim branches on a city-owned pine, also if exposed roots of the tree, in a pathway, need attention.

At the Doud Arcade on the west side of Ocean Avenue below San Carlos Street, the council will consider requiring additional planting of trees in the sidewalk area and designate species.

On Mission Street between Fourth and Fifth avenues, they will act on the request of Mrs. Florence E. Young to remove three small city pines which, Mrs. Young claims, are causing structural damage and interference with sewer lines.

Carmel Officials List 1962 Hopes, Summarize 1961

A new year, 1962, arrives on Monday. As '1961 draws to a close the Pine Cone presents the New Year's wishes of Carmel's public officials, what they would like to see happen to our city in 1962, also what they consider the most beneficial events of 1961 for the citizens of the community.

Mayor Frank Putnam says he wants many things for Carmel in 1962, but first on his list is a desire that the new tree-planting program for the city gets underway. Secondly, he would like to see no new building in Carmel in the coming year; thirdly, no improvements of any kind. Lastly, Mayor Putnam desires a further decrease in taxes for all property owners.

He lists as most significant benefits in the past year: first, the decrease in property taxes (36c); second, the Ocean Avenue drainage and resurfacing project which greatly improved the appearance and efficiency of Carmel's main street.

City Councilman Francis Whitaker, Carmel's street commissioner, in 1962, wants the city to complete acquisition of all beach frontage. One hundred feet of land west of Scenic Drive at the south end of Carmel Beach still remains in private ownership. The city has obtained 400 feet of frontage in this area in its acquisition program. If the last 100 feet is acquired, the entire beach will be forever dedicated as an unspoiled natural recreation area. (The Pebble Beach end of the beach has been so designated by Del Monte Properties.)

Other improvements in Carmel Mr. Whitaker would like to see accomplished in 1962 are: one, landscaping completed at Perry Newberry Park; two, the city's corporation yard, situated behind the police station at Seventh and Mission, moved to city-owned property in the C-2 zone, where it properly belongs, also the present non-conforming buildings at the corporation yard removed and decent buildings built to replace them at the new site.

Most significant city accomplishment in 1961, according to Mr. Whitaker, is the conversion of the former city dumping ground at Mission and First into municipal. (Continued on Page Fourteen)

MILTON MAYER LECTURES ON EUROPEAN RESIDENT AT MFC JANUARY 3, 5

Carmel author-journalist Milton Mayer, just returned from behind-the-Iron-Curtain countries which he visited under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee, of which he is a member, will discuss The European Resident at Monterey Peninsula College on Wednesday and again on January 5. The lectures will be at 8:00 o'clock in the evening in the Armory and will tell about the people who must piece together their lives under Soviet control.

Highlands Residents Honor Volunteers At Firehouse Festivity

The annual Carmel Highlands Christmas Party will be held at the firehouse at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Russell Williams and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, this is a cooperative community festivity in which local residents of all ages directly or indirectly take part. Mrs. Hal Boyd heads the food and serving committee this year. Roasting turkeys and hams have been in Highlands ovens all day; hot dishes, salads and desserts are being prepared. Residents who are unable to bring food donate cash contributions. Any surplus cash goes into the firemen's fund.

The evening's entertainment is centered around the children of the area. The young people have spent the past two days constructing colorful and intricate pinatas for the great pinata breaking, highlight of the evening, in which each child has a turn at cracking roosters, parrots and flying fish. Head of the hospitality committee is Mrs. Seizo Kodani, wife of the Highlands fire chief.

The party, given by Highlands residents each year for over 20 years, is an appreciation of the service given to the community by the members of the Highlands Volunteer Fire Department.

Navy Fire Fighters Conduct Drill At Firehouse Tonight

The increased use of jet aircraft in the local area has led to a joint meeting of fire departments from communities in Monterey County with fire fighting experts from the U. S. Naval Air Facility, set for 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Carmel firehouse.

The special two-hour drill, during which Naval personnel will demonstrate latest techniques in handling fuel lines, live ammunition and other inflammable and explosive materials in the event of a jet crash, was arranged following the recent mutual aid agreement between the air facility and Peninsula cities, according to Carmel Fire Chief Robert E. Smith.

Representatives are expected from fire departments in Seaside, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Santa Cruz, Salinas, Salinas Rural, Carmel Valley and elsewhere.

SPORTS IN REVIEW

With the Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament setting a fine pattern, the 1961 sport picture on the Monterey Peninsula proved to be one of the best in years. In the Crosby, Palo Alto's Bob Rosburg delighted his golfing fans from the Bay Area by posting a 282 score, to take home the $5,000 winner's share. Pro-amateur title winners were Wes Ellis and amateur partner Frank Tatum who clipped 36 strokes off par in the 72-hole test. The weather man smiled on the Crosby Tournament in 1961 as evidenced by the record galleries and gate receipts. Road races at the Laguna Seca track attracted over 60,000 spectators, indicating the Monterey Peninsula is rapidly becoming the sports car capital of California. The California and National Amateur Golf Championships were contested over the Peninsula courses with Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio State belter, emerging as the top amateur in the nation. The big power hitter will return to Pebble Beach to make his professional debut in the Crosby Pro-Am on January 18-21.

Monterey Peninsula College enjoyed one of its finest years, winning the Coast Junior College basketball title when San Jose City College was dropped from contention, producing one of the best track teams in junior college circles, and winning the football title with a resounding victory over arch-rival Hartnell. The MPC-Hartnell football game was by far the best grid attraction of the 1961 season and points up the outstanding coaching job turned in by George Porter, Tor Spindler and Luke Phillips. New junior college legislation barring the use of out-of-district athletes will see a new format in MPC sports during the coming year. Where it has been possible to recruit top athletes from open districts in the past, the Lobos will have to rely on the local talent available at Monterey, Junipero, Pacific Grove and Carmel to staff the athletic teams.

Coach Dan Albert's Monterey High gridgers provided the exciting news in prep grid circles by turning in a perfect season to win the CCAL A-division title and rate as the fifth best high school team in California. Besides an undefeated varsity season, Monterey's lightweight, junior-lightweight and junior-varsity teams compiled undefeated records for one of the most remarkable performances in Peninsula football history.

Carmel High's junior-varsity squad also turned in a perfect record, winning 8 games and copping the mythical CCAL B-division championship. Coach Fred Rainer's Little Padres proved to be one of the hardest hitting units ever to wear the Red & Gray spangles and the prospects look good for a solid varsity contingent during the 1962 season. Carmel's varsity gridgers were able to handle everything in the B-league except King City and the scrappy Padres came close to upsetting Ernie Piper's champs. The close loss to King City was the first defeat for a Carmel varsity squad in five years and the win by King City gave the Mustangs their first title since 1945. Carmel's varsity basketball team backed into the B-division title when Gilroy was declared ineligible by administrative decree. The Padre cagers also won their own hoop tournament for the first time as the invitation committee removed the talented quintets from Monterey and Fremont.

Little League action in Carmel was more popular than ever with Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty copping the title in a two-out-of-three playoff with Art Carpenter's Pilot Market gang. However, the class of the Little League picture came out of Carmel Valley where Gordy Miyamoto and Jay Huffman's Valley Pistons powered over all opposition. Besides winning the playoff from Carmel, the Pistons went on to win the district title. Big Dave Marvin pitched all the playoff victories for the Pistons and was the Most Valuable Player in the District Tournament.

In the national sports picture, the West Coast was able to hold its head a little higher as Coach Jim Owens' Washington Huskies clipped Minnesota in the Rose Bowl. Bay Area football was at a low ebb with both California and Stanford finding major schedules too tough for the material available. However, both the Indians and Bears have embarked on strong recruiting programs for the 1962 season and vow to come back as major college powers.

Y. A. Tittle fans were unhappy when the San Francisco 49ers traded the veteran quarterback to the New York Giants, but they are now smiling with pleasure because the popular ex-49er led the Giants to the Eastern Division professional title. Tittle not only gave the Giants a big lift with his fierce competitive spirit, he earned the respect of the whole Giant organization by being named the most popular Giant of them all. The Green Bay Packers, with some of the brightest stars farmed out to Uncle Sam, again won the Western Division title and will meet YA and his gang for the pro title this Sunday.

Boxing, particularly in the heavyweight division, was in a sad state with television doing its best to hold the game together. Champion Floyd Patterson has a hard time proving he is a real champ because Sonny Liston, his top challenger, is having a hard time behaving himself. Top fighter and biggest credit to the sport is middleweight champ, Gene Fullmer, who doesn't dodge any of the good ones and is willing to fight several times a year. Old Archie Moore and nearly-as-old Sugar Ray Robinson continue to amaze the youngsters by their refusal to quit the ring and pay some attention to their grandchildren.

Just about as expected most any year, the New York Yankees outclassed the American League to garner the junior circuit title and clipped the upstart Cincinnati Reds in the World Series. With most fans over 40 years of age pulling against him and those under 40 rooting for him, Roger Maris failed to beat Babe Ruth's homer record in the regulation number of games, but the Yankee slugger hit 61 before the season was finished to establish a homer record of his own. New manager Alvin Dark saw his San Francisco Giants collapse in their accustomed style and the same story prevailed—wait until next year. Addition of Don Larsen and Billy Pierce will be the important roster change for the 1962 season, but the loss of Joey Amalfitano won't help the infield situation.

Novelist Ovid Demaris Exposes Underworld in Books—Crime Pays

ing, straight-talking man, straight-writing too, as his many books, most of them suspense novels with sociological themes, prove.

Judging by the few we know about, these books are primarily lucid and fast-moving, and often explosive, humorous, sensual, irritating and memorable. In short, Demaris writing is pretty much like life itself, especially life as it is lived in the crush of a big city, perhaps in the smoky, green-felt atmosphere of the casino or on the cold, unupholstered benches of criminal court.

The working title of his current book is, in fact, Green-Felt Jungle, a non-fiction expose of life in Las Vegas. And right here is where we run up against an apparent inconsistency. For Green-Felt will be a hard-cover book, published by Simon and Schuster, and co-authored by Ed Reid, Pulitzer Prize journalist who won his laurel for his writing in The Brooklyn Eagle about loan shark Harry Gross.

So Demaris talked a little about books with hard covers vs. books with soft covers. Except for certain things, like the book he's now doing (he's by choice a soft-cover man, he says. "Buying a hard-cover book is like going to a movie and, after it's over, taking home the film reels. A hard-cover is expensive, and after you've read it, what are you going to do with it?

"That's from a reader's viewpoint. From an author's viewpoint, when you sell to a paperback house, you get a guaranteed payment in advance on 200,000 to 300,000 copies. As far as quality of writing goes, if it's acceptable to a paperback editor, it's also acceptable to a hard-back. But with a hard-back the advance will probably be on only 1,000 to 1,500 copies.

"The hard-back publisher also becomes part owner of the book, holding 50 per cent rights on any other sales to movies or television. In the paperback field, all the rights are the author's and if after three years it isn't reissued, the author can sell it somewhere else.

"So unless you have a book with great potential as a best seller or a book of serious fiction, it doesn't pay to go to the hard-backs."

Demaris, who has been writing full-time for the past two years only, wrote five of his books last year, sometimes writing as many as 5000 words a day.

"First you have to learn the technique and all the literary devices. Once you know them, you just think of the story and the mechanics take care of themselves. When I first started, I used to plot out on paper what I was going to write day by day. Now I don't really want to know how it's going to turn out. It's more entertaining to be surprised."

Since Demaris writes about crime, he says, that means material is everywhere. Gambling, even where it's legalized, is tied up with crime, he says. The reason we have so much crime is that Americans have the cynicism it needs to breed in, even among our teenagers. "Gambling alone is a 20 to 40 billion-dollar-a-year business," according to Demaris. "I believe crime in this country today is stronger and bigger than it's ever been."

But the author doesn't give the impression of sitting in judgment. He's simply done a lot of research on his subject, he says. He thinks nothing of reading through trial transcripts of 3,000 pages and poring over old newspaper clippings for his material. Sometimes he interviews informants. He defines informants as "people who know criminals and sometimes work for them but don't for some reason feel as if they are one of them. And this feeling of being an outsider in crime leads them to be talkative."

It is true that in conversation Demaris can reel off underworld names, even names of "mafiosi", as casually as if they were next-door neighbors. But that doesn't mean you'll find them in his stories, not his fiction anyway.

"When I write, I like to have five times as much material as I'll ever use. Hemingway said when you leave something out of a book because you don't know it, it makes holes in the story; but when you leave something out because you do know it, that makes the story stronger."

"A lot of people read only factual things like history and travel books and tell themselves they're improving their minds. But factual writing has many more limitations and therefore tells a lesser truth in the end. The fiction writer has poetic license to interpret the facts and arrive at a greater reality."

"That's what makes fiction bigger than life. By using fiction, Tolstoy showed how the Russian peasant was essentially a better man than the patrician and how (in Anna Karenina) adultery in a given society at a certain period in history was acceptable but only if it was not taken seriously. Both these things were true facts in Russia at the time. But it took fiction to tell about them."

Demaris also has views on censorship of books. He fears it. Not for his own work especially, since paperback books are bound by a more rigid industry-imposed code than hard-backs, but for America in general. "If we ask ourselves, every time a book comes out, 'would you let your child read it?' then we'll be reducing our reading culture to the same 10- to 12-year-old mental age our television and magazines are already reduced to."

Besides Hemingway, Demaris says that of course William Faulkner is on the top of the ladder in American letters. "I'm not sure I like Salinger too much. A man who is coming along is John Updike. I like the short stories of John O'Hara, Robert Penn Warren sometimes, and Nelson Algren. But often I think our best American writer after all was Tolstoy."

Some of the Demaris books, many of them still available and some of them not, include the Gold Medal and Avon titles: Ride the Gold Mare (a story about drug addiction), The Hoods Take Over (made into the movie, Gang War), The Lusting Drive, The Slasher (a subjective study of a psychopathic killer), The Gold-Plated Sewer, The Extortioners, The Enforcer.

"Most of the titles aren't my own," Demaris said. "Authors have no control over those covers either."

He has also written three factual books for Monarch, including The Lindbergh Kidnapping, Lucky Luciano and The Dillinger Story. Two of his books, The Hoods Take Over and The Lusting Drive, were reprinted this year. Another, Candyleg, is new on the stands. The title word is another term for "fall guy," the author explained.

Demaris, who was born in Biddeford, Maine, holds a bachelor's degree from the College of Idaho, studied law for one year at Syracuse University, and received a master's degree in journalism from Boston University.

He spent five years in the Air Force during World War II. He started out as a newspaper reporter in New England and spent a number of years with the United Press, Boston Bureau.

A member of Mystery Writers of America and Authors' League, he moved to Carmel with his family, which includes Mrs. Desmarais (Inez), and a daughter, Peggy, a student at Carmel High School. The Desmarais have another daughter, Linda, who is a student at Valley State College, Los Angeles.

"Writers always say that the best thing about their profession is the chance to live wherever they like," Demaris remarked. "It is true all you need is paper and a typewriter. You need a good agent, too, but fortunately you don't have to carry him around with you."

Demaris says Carmel is a good place to write. He plans to go to Europe perhaps next summer, perhaps later. "The trouble with living where you like is that, with so much freedom, you can't make up your mind where to live."

Like Demaris said, we came away from interviewing him with five times as much material as we can use, and it is all fascinating too, what with his familiarity with the world of one-way mirrors in hotel rooms, tapped phone wires, income-tax dodgers and laid-off bets.

Ovide Desmarais, alias Ovid Demaris, is making crime pay, all right, with a good chance of helping us understand the more shadowy parts of our society into the bargain.

PRELIMINARY HEARING SET

A preliminary hearing has been set for January 9, in Monterey Municipal Court for a Carmel man arrested last week on a charge of statutory rape. Robert Martin, 24, of Carpenter Street and Second Avenue, was arraigned Friday on the charge, and released on $1,050 bail.

Martin, a disc jockey for a Monterey radio station, allegedly was involved in a romance with a 14-year-old Marina girl, according to the complaint on which he was arrested by a Monterey County sheriff's officer.

Art On The Peninsula

A memorial show of paintings of the late Paul Mays, above, will open on Wednesday at the Carmel Art Association Galleries. Mr. Mays, whose death occurred this year, was a member of the Association and first came to Carmel in 1915. He studied art in Europe prior to this, then returned to this country and painted murals in New York, also a mural for the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco.

He also created a mural for Paramount Pictures before going to Europe again in 1923. For two years he painted extensively abroad in various localities, including Venice where Matisse was also painting, then came back to the United States for a year before going back to Europe to conduct classes and paint in Cornwall, England, and in France for three years.

In 1930 Paul Mays was commissioned by a Spanish government agency to do a series of illustrations for an autobiography of Benjamin Franklin in Spanish and spent several years in Spain. In 1933 he returned again to the United States and did a series of murals for public buildings in the Philadelphia area. One of his pictures, painted during this period, was purchased by President Franklin D. Roosevelt from the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, D.C., and hung in the White House. He came to live permanently in Carmel in 1937.

Monterey Peninsula College's permanent collection of photographic prints by Wynn Bullock, Admiral Edward C. Forsyth, Brett Weston and his father, the late Edward Weston, will be exhibited from January 2-26 in the MPC library lecture hall. The show will be open to the public free of charge daytimes and evenings while the college is in session and when the room is not being used for classes. All four of these photographers have had previous shows at MPC.

Paintings by Count Giancarlo Erizzo, young Italian expressionist, are being shown at Hidden Village Art Galleries, 220 Olivier Street, Monterey, until January

15. Hours are noon to 5:00 o'clock and 7:00 till midnight.

Erizzo was born in Venice in 1933. He still lives and works there. He had his first one-man show in Venice in 1957 and has exhibited following this in private galleries and public exhibitions. He has received universal and enthusiastic acclaim from foremost art critics in Europe. His prime interest is landscape which he depicts with an interplay of vital color and plastic form. Among his paintings are scenes from several areas of his native land, Italy, where his family history is traceable to the year 805.

Gamble's Galleries in Cannery Row, Monterey, has sent out invitations for An Evening of Watching Music and Listening to Paintings tomorrow from 8:00 to 10:00 o'clock in the evening. Franc Snyder, a composer and pianist who has recently come to live on the Peninsula, will give musical interpretations of pictures brought in by local artists, either through extemporaneous compositions of his own, or through those of other composers which the pictures may suggest to him. The Galleries emphasize that this is an informal evening; guests are asked to bring pillows for sitting on the floor. Coffee will be served.

Franc Snyder, who is an artist as well as a musician, will have a show at Gamble's Galleries in January.

The Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts is endeavoring to obtain a paid-up membership of one thousand persons by the end of January in order to proceed with plans for a more varied and interested

Otha Thomas

Mrs. Otha C. Thomas, 85, wife of the late Judge Dana Thomas of San Jose and the mother of Mrs. Mark Raggett of Carmel, died on Tuesday in a local rest home. She came to the Monterey Peninsula six months ago from San Jose where she had lived for 45 years and was a recognized civic leader.

Mrs. Thomas was born in Howell, Missouri, in 1876. She led a varied and interesting life, also traveled extensively throughout the world including visits to Russia in the past few years.

As a minister of the Quaker faith, Mrs. Thomas, with her husband, was a missionary in Kotzebue, Alaska, from 1902-1906. She also taught there in the first government school.

She was a life member of both the national and California Parent-Teacher associations and helped found the Patrons' Association at San Jose State College. She was well known as an educator and lecturer. For many years, Mrs. Thomas was a frequent Carmel visitor. In addition to Mrs. Raggett, another daughter, Dr. Faith Thomas of San Jose, has a home here.

Other survivors include a son, Paul Dana Thomas of Oakland; and four grandchildren, Midshipman First Class Michael M. Raggett and Jon Raggett, both of Carmel, and Paul Thomas Jr. and Diana Thomas, who live in Oakland. Those wishing to honor the program for Peninsula people. All 1962 memberships are $2.00 per person. Sustaining memberships are $25; patron memberships, $100; life memberships, $500. Any person wishing to become an AFA member in any of the above categories may mail the mentioned amounts to Box 4807, Carmel.

Miss Sophie Harp, AFA executive secretary, is anxious to meet all members at the chapter's headquarters on Lincoln Street. She would like to learn their particular interests and to have suggestions as to projects and improvements that will benefit the membership.

The annual meeting of the local AFA chapter will be held on January 25 at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. Cocktails will be served at 6:00 o'clock. Dinner will be at 8:00.

memory of Mrs. Thomas may do so in the form of donations to the New Community Hospital Building Fund, Box HH, Carmel.

Funeral services will be held at 11:00 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Chapel of the Roses in San Jose, with the Oak Hill Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Anna Saylor

Mrs. Anna Mabel Saylor, 72, of Carmel, died Sunday in a local hospital. She had been ill for a short time. Born April 18, 1889, in Holdrege, Nebraska, she came to Carmel to make her home some nine years ago, after living in Pasadena.

She was a clothing designer formerly with the I. Magnin Company, and after moving to Carmel made her home at Camino del Monte and Pico Street.

Survivors include two daughters, Edla Saylor Lynch of Beirut, Lebanon, and Joan Saylor Andrew of La Canada, California; two sons, Dr. Louis F. Saylor of San Francisco, and Captain Philip G. Saylor (USN) of McLean, Virginia; five sisters, Mrs. Grace Youngslund of Phoenix, Arizona, Miss Charlotte Johnson of Pacific Grove, Mrs. Myrtle Swanson of Whittier, Miss Edla Johnson and Miss Esther Johnson of Denver, Colorado; two brothers, Oscar Johnson of Denver, and Theodore Johnson of Osceola, Nebraska, and eight grandchildren. A third son, Willis B. Saylor, preceded his mother in death in 1942.

Final rites were held Tuesday afternoon at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating. Burial followed in El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Mary McFarland

Mrs. Mary Hattie McFarland, a former Carmelite and mother of Gilbert W. McFarland of Carmel, died Saturday at the age of 86 in a Salinas hospital following a lengthy illness.

Born May 16, 1876, in Ogden, Utah, Mrs. McFarland came to the Peninsula 27 years ago, living first in Carmel and later in Pacific Grove. She was a member of the Pacific Grove Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

In addition to the son in Carmel, Mrs. McFarland is survived by another son, Paul S. McFarland of Pacific Grove; two brothers, Harold Staker of Ogden, Utah, and Joseph E. Staker of Twin Falls, Idaho, and two grandsons, Eugene McFarland of Carmel and Robert McFarland of Berkeley.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Paul Funeral Chapel with the Paul Mortuary of Pacific Grove in charge of arrangements. Bishop H. Worth Ingersoll of the Pacific Grove Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will conduct the services. Interment will follow at El Carmelo Cemetery.

Cocktails at Jean Geisen's

Mrs. Jean Geisen and her daughters, Toni Haire of Long Beach and Heather Hamilton of New York City, who are on holiday visits here, asked a group of young people to a cocktail party yesterday. Durell Decker In Youth Hostels Throughout Europe Meets Other Students From All Over The World

Durell Decker interrupted her college studies after two years to travel in Europe, and describes her adventures in letters to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker. Last week's installment was an account of a visit to East Berlin. This week, Durell tells about youth hostels in a letter from Vienna.

Young persons traveling abroad have the opportunity to stay in youth hostels situated in nearly every sizable town, also in the countryside. They economize on food and overnight housing expenses. But above all they meet youth of their own age from many lands and exchange ideas and information. Durell describes her youth hostel experiences as follows:

"In all of the youth hostels in which I have been so far, except in Germany, English is the common language. Canadians, Australians and United Statesers comprise the majority of hostellers. However, besides students from every country in which I have been, I have encountered students from India, Persia, Lebanon, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Egypt, Israel, Iran, Iraq, Greece, Portugal, Italy, New Zealand, England, France, Tunis, Spain, Mexico, Puerto Rico, South Africa, Sweden, Tanganyika, Guinea and many more countries.

"Most of the youth hostellers are doing the same thing I am. It is hard to find time to write because there is always an interesting discussion going on in the evening at any hostel.

"Last night a group of students from another part of Austria arrived in their native costumes. They sang and danced and it was wonderful to watch. In Austria, tradition has not been forgotten as it seems to have been in most of the other countries I have visited.

"I am staying here in Vienna in the nicest, most expensive youth hostel I have seen thus far in my travels. It has hot water, nice showers, an elevator, fine paintings and pictures in the hallways, tasteful decor, good but expensive diners, lounges on every floor, a common room on the ground floor, and no hostel duties.

"I got a ride from Copenhagen to Stuttgart with a couple of hostellers. This saved me money and was very pleasant. We stopped in Hamburg, in Frankfurt for two days, in Munich, one, and in Stuttgart, three.

"Vienna is the most expensive place I have been so far. I cannot live for under $2.50 a day and that is just for room and board and transportation.

"In Germany the youth hostel cost me 17 cents a night. Here it is 60 cents. Quite a difference! But Vienna truly is a city for kings—in architecture as well as price. I had heard Austria was supposed to be inexpensive.

"My expenses for four weeks in November, including all gifts, came to $70.

"At night if there is a group (school) in a hostel, which is quite common, we sometimes talk until 2:00 or 3:00 o'clock in the morning. Youth hostellers also have the most voluminous and most reliable travel information to exchange. This is how we learn where to go, where not to go, what to buy, what not to buy, and just good tips on odds and ends and problems. Transportation is my greatest expense.

"I got a ride from Germany to Denmark with a youth hosteler whom I first met in Amsterdam. Copenhagen was wonderful. It was sunny every day though below freezing point the whole time we were there and the days just didn't last long enough. It got light about 8:00 o'clock in the morning and was dark again by 3:00 in the afternoon.

"There was a large pond in front of the youth hostel, frozen over, and we had a good time watching the ducks skate across its hard white surface. Every morning both the ground and the shrubbery were white with frost. It was a small but very lovely wonderland we saw in front of the hostel!

"I saw one of the most glorious sunsets I ever hope to see at 3:30 o'clock one afternoon as we were heading home from downtown Copenhagen to the hostel.

"I was most impressed with the Danish people, also their handicrafts and their cooking. The Danish farmlands are quaint and picturesque.

"We arrived in Vienna at 5:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This city is a magnificent patriarch of the past yet it lends its beauty and enchantment to the present. The ballet, opera and concert hall and theatre are full every night of the week, and it is no wonder.

"What is presented is excellent, yet very inexpensive. I can go to an opera for one-quarter of the price of my bed at the hostel (15 cents). I have seen two ballets and two operas. The latter were the Magic Flute and Salome.

"I have also visited the Schonbrunn Palace, the summer home of Maria Theresa, Joseph II and Franz Joseph. It is a superb structure very much like the Palace of Versailles but warmer and more like a home.

"The grounds are beautiful and inside are many Chinese porcelains. There were only two of us, both hostelers, on the tour of the palace, myself and a girl from Pasadena. We had an excellent guide who told us the history of the old Chinese pieces and suggested that, for further information, I should visit the museum of applied arts here and talk to the director. This I plan to do tomorrow. I have also been to the Grimaldi Museum to see the collection of Breughels.

"It has been snowing all day today. The hill behind the hostel is used for skiing and there is a big ski jump near the top. I climbed up to the jump yesterday and watched those more fortunate than myself either ski or toboggan down the hill. I had to walk back down to the hostel.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Freedom from sin, sickness and limitation is available to all through the power of Spirit, God. This is the encouraging message to be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Bible readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christian Science" will include (Matt. 9): "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people."

A correlative passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them. This is an element of progress, and progress is the law of God, whose law demands of us only what we can certainly fulfill" (p. 233).

Two Bears For Christmas

Bear hunting in a northern California wilderness is not everyone's idea of how to spend Christmas, but Lee Hare, son of Mrs. Hildreth Hare, and his Desert Sun School classmate, Bruce Magidson of Beverly Hills, decided to spend it just that way. Striking west from Redding into the rough country of Trinity and Humboldt counties with a group of other hunters and dogs to scent their quarry, the boys each bagged a 250 pound black bear on Christmas Eve. After hauling out their game with the help of mules, Lee and Bruce got back to Carmel the day after Christmas exhausted and proud of themselves. Bruce took his bear south the same day, while Lee's bear when last heard of was hanging from a tree in the Hares' garden and the family were cogitating the logistics of butchering bear meat and making a bearskin rug.

Nancy Tally Here

For the past few weeks Nancy Tally of Sacramento has been the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Robinson of Carmel.

Annual Cannon Firing

Carmel Highlands neighbors of Mrs. Valentine Miller will take official recognition of 1962 by gathering at her house to toast the new year and at exactly midnight to fire a miniature cannon from the railing of the sundeck. Discovered about 15 years ago in a Kansas second-hand store by Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams who were then living in Topeka, the cannon makes an annual appearance for this purpose only. A proper military touch is given by Richard Lofton whose early training at The Citadel, South Carolina, is evident in the masterly manner in which he shouts the command to fire.

Chaffey's Visiting

On a brief holiday visit here last weekend were Dr. and Mrs. Ben Chaffey of Los Angeles, with their son, two and a half year old John Ellsworth Chaffey. Mrs. Chaffey is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams of Carmel Highlands, and Ben is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Chaffey of Pacific Grove. The Chaffeys expect to be back for another visit in January when Dr. Chaffey, who is a resident physician at the U.C.L.A. Hospital, is slated for a few more days' holiday.

New Reynolds Book

Recent visitor to the Peninsula Malvina Reynolds, who performed so successfully at the KPFA-benefit hootenanny several weekends ago at Sunset auditorium, has a new book off the press: Tweedles and Foodles for Young Noodles, a collection of songs with words and music by Miss Reynolds for the very young.

And the very young are a substantial part of the Reynolds aggregation of fans, as was proved on the Peninsula when Malvina sang at the youngsters' folk music program preceding the adult program.

The book, illustrated by Jodi Robbin and published by Schroder Music Company of Berkeley, contains 14 very singable songs, a couple of which had Peninsula premieres when the singer was here. Miss Reynolds and her husband are residents of Berkeley.

Originating in China where it is known as Tai Chi Chuan, the system teaches a simple, natural and healthful way of life. Mr. Hu will demonstrate the set of exercises made up of approximately 96 postures, which are slow, continuous, circular, rhythmic and graceful movements said to be good for both men and women, young and old. After the program tea will be served.

A slightly modified system of issuing bicycle licenses will go into operation in Carmel beginning Saturday, the Carmel Police Department announced today.

Instead of applying at the police station, bike riders will be issued their tabs at the city corporation yard, Seventh and Mission streets, on Saturdays during the hours from 8:00 o'clock in the morning to noon only.

The price will remain the same, 25 cents.

Tomorrow evening the Carmel Youth Center has slated its annual Holiday Hop, set to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Jack Giles, Center director, was reminding members and prospective Youth Center members this week that 1962 membership cards are out and may be picked up by those eligible.

Carmel motorists were to begin receiving passenger car statements this week from the California Department of Motor Vehicles. The state office is mailing some eight million of the bills for payment of license fees to Californians this year.

All residents of the Peninsula can obtain licenses before February deadline at the local office of the Department of Motor Vehicles, 457 Webster Street, Monterey.

Pine Needles...

Miss Bain Visits

Paying her nearly-annual visit to her sister, Mrs. J. L. Hughes of Carmel, has been Miss Ruth Bain, who left Carmel last night to continue on her current trip around the world, her fifth.

Miss Bain, a frequent visitor to Carmel over the years and operator of the Bain Travel Service in the Empire State Building, New York City, was to go from here to the South Seas, Australia, Hong Kong, and return to New York by way of Europe, Mrs. Hughes said. It's truly a "nearly-annual" trip with Miss Bain. The two sisters made the tour together last year.

Truesdells Home Again

Guests of Imelmans

Visiting here over the Christmas weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Imelman were Mrs. Imelman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gile Huffman of Berkeley. They arrived on Friday, returned home Tuesday.

Five Mishaps Mar Holiday Weekend

Several accidents marred the holiday week for Carmelites and their families.

A hunting accident Saturday in Stewart Canyon, Carmel Valley, caused serious injury to Douglas Martin, 47, of Monterey, who was hunting quail with his father, Carmel Martin, Sr., Monterey, when a shotgun held by the younger man accidentally discharged in some chaparral.

His condition was listed as unchanged at Monterey Hospital today. The blast from the gun wounded Martin in the face.

An auto accident Monday at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon on Highway 1 north of Corona Road, Carmel Highlands, caused minor injuries to Peter M. Mitchell of Carmel when he swerved his south-bound car to miss a deer. The Mitchell car left the road and crashed into an embankment.

On Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock, according to Carmel police, a pedestrian, Josephine Bagley of Carmel, received minor injuries when a car pulling from a parking place bumped her. The car was driven by George Bramholt of Carmel.

On Sunday Rupert P. Leach of Carmel, driving south on Carpenter Street, escaped uninjured when his brakes failed. The car rolled across a vacant lot and was stopped by a picket fence.

Injured in an accident Friday night near San Ardo was William Edwin Ejams, 21, of Pebble Beach. Highway Patrolmen said Ejams lost control of the car, which hit a utility pole. His injuries were minor.

Robert Pfeiffer

Four-year-old Robert Lee Pfeiffer, a member of the Pfeiffer family whose grandparents were Big Sur pioneers, died Tuesday in a Hollister hospital.

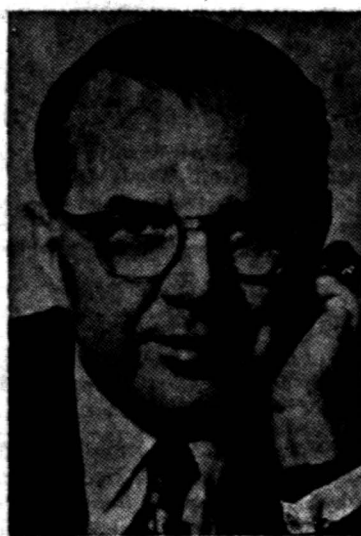

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Pfeiffer Jr. of San Juan Bautista, Robert was born May 25, 1957, in Salinas. He had suffered ill health since birth.

In addition to his parents, he leaves a brother, Joseph A. Pfeiffer III, and two sisters, Deborah Marie and Cynthia Jean, in addition to his grandparents.

Funeral services were to be held this afternoon in Salinas, with burial to follow in the Garden of Memories.

NEED PRINTING?

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-8881.

The second in the current World Around Us Lecture series, sponsored by the Carmel Adult School, will be Trekking the Tibetan Border presented by Earl Brink on January 4, at 8:00 o'clock in the evening in the Sunset Auditorium. It is one of the rarest adventure films ever made. Mr. Brink will tell in person his experiences along the 2,500-mile border where Red China and suppression are on one side, India and freedom on the other.

The film journey starts in Delhi at the Republic Day Parade, with hundreds of thousands of marchers on the ground, jets overhead, and millions of viewers along the way. After visits to Benares and the Taj Mahal, the trek begins near Khyber Pass, at Peshawar, called Arabian Nights Country complete with Ali Baba and thousands of thieves.

From noisy Peshawar to the Vale of Kashmir is like moving to a fleecy cloud. Here Moslems face west at prayer time, for Mecca is in that direction rather than east. In the Kulu Valley the Brink party was practically next door to the Red Chinese. Vast mule trains plod over the freezing Himalaya Mountains from Tibet in the movie. At Keylong, where people literally live in the clouds, mountainsides are shown dotted with Chortans, white shrines at which the Tibetans throw stones to drive away evil spirits. Devil dancers depict the history of Buddhism in the film.

It also shows in the valley of the Hunzas, people who live to be over 100 years old and are said to be the healthiest in the world. A highlight of the film is Musoorie, caravan point from Lhasa and escape hatch for the Dalai Lama when he fled from the Red Chinese. At Kalimpong the last wool train from Tibet was photographed. At Sikkim, a visit was made to the King and Queen. Here the royal family has a private monastery. In Pedong, the swastika was found in its original setting as a religious symbol long before Hitler appropriated it.

Darjeeling is so cosmopolitan residents must know four or five languages. The famous cinerama train terminates there after winding up the mountains through vast tea plantations. Tensing Norgay, Sir Edmund Hillary's guide in the conquest of Mount Everest, is visited at his Mountaineering Institute. Climax of the film is a great processional in honor of the birth of Buddha.

Earl Brink has been roaming the world since 1936. Taking more than a half million feet of color films, and traveling a mile for every foot made, Mr. Brink has visited 108 countries and island groups. Unusual, off-the-beaten-track motion pictures in unsurpassed color are a Brink specialty. A successful businessman, Mr. Brink was born in Oklahoma where he became a bank owner in his early 20's. Later in Michigan he built the world's largest health and accident insurance agency there. He has owned and directed radio stations in Detroit. He is a member of the Adventurers Club, the Circumnavigators Club, and the Explorers Club, all of New York.

A NEW SLANT ON LIFE IN 1962

This year give yourself room to stretch in a home drenched in sunshine, yet in the lovely pines of the Del Monte Forest. The cleared and completely fenced half acre lot is big enough for elbow room, small enough for easy maintenance. The charming residence features the convenience and simple dignity of the familiar California ranch style, with a spacious living room, a marvelous family room, and an all-electric kitchen with hand-rubbed cabinets. Old brick forms the fireplace and raised hearth in the living room and an efficient Bar-B-Q is in the family room. Three bedrooms, 2 baths. A double garage. Cedar shake roof. Central heat, of course. It's all in "mint" condition; and if you set your heart on this one, your pocketbook will be grateful, for the price is only $31,500 and we can arrange excellent terms. May we show you?

City Officials List 1962 Hopes, Summarize 1961

an adult recreation area.

John Chitwood, former mayor, present city councilman and police commissioner, centers his hopes for the betterment of Carmel in 1962 around a solution for the parking problem in the business district.

Mr. Chitwood is encouraged to hope that progress towards this end will be accomplished in the coming year because of work already done by the Carmel Business Association and study scheduled for January by the city planning commission in cooperation with the association and the council.

Steps towards a system for financing, also a plan, for commercial district off-street parking lots to meet the needs of the city are assured in 1962, Mr. Chitwood believes.

This year the city's greatest step forward has been the Ocean Avenue improvement project which eliminated a years-long city drainage problem, according to Mr. Chitwood. The loss of parking spaces on Ocean Avenue, by substituting parallel for diagonal parking, is more than compensated for by the drainage improvement, he emphasizes.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg has two major wishes for the city which he hopes will be fulfilled in 1962. They are, first, to control business building sizes and sites; second, to establish an annual parking fee. His first desire will keep huge chain enterprises out of Carmel, he says; the second will eliminate all city property taxes.

The city's greatest boon in 1961 was a limiting multiple dwelling density to 1,000 square feet of site per unit. This stopped "mushrooming motel growth," Mr. Norberg stresses. He is Carmel's fire commissioner.

Councilman Eben Whittlesey, commissioner of health and safety, hopes that in 1962 some decisions will be made towards suitable development of city property below the Youth Center between Junipero and Torres streets... perhaps a municipal building on the site such as a civil defense disaster center. Mr. Whittlesey also would like to see the city develop a more complete plan for tree-planting procedures, through more effective collaboration between the forestry commission and the city council, in the coming year. Thirdly, he would like a complete revision of the business license tax ordinance.

In 1961, Mr. Whittlesey thinks Carmel benefitted most from improvements which, one, converted the Mission and First dump into an adult recreation park, two, provided drainage and a new roadway surface for Ocean Avenue.

Carmel Planning Commission Chairman Herbert B. Blanks wants to find a solution to the parking problem in the business district in 1962.

The city's new central district zoning ordinance, adopted this year, is the greatest 1961 benefit to the community, Mr. Blanks declares, because it enables property owners to know where specified business developments may go and what they can do with their land.

Assistant City Clerk Arthur Plaxton hopes that Carmel will continue just as it is in 1962; remain as delightful a place in which to live; the people stay as nice to deal with; everybody work to keep the things we have.

He hopes, however, that all citizens will demonstrate pride in Carmel by continuing to improve their property, also help the city to keep up the appearance of public lands, especially street frontages, during 1962.

Re-doing Ocean Avenue was the greatest public improvement of 1961, Mr. Plaxton states. The parallel parking expedites traffic flow and provides vistas of "one of the most beautiful streets in the world," Mr. Plaxton says.

Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann, chairman of the Carmel Arts Commission, defines the greatest 1961 accomplishments of the commission as follows: instituting free Sunday afternoon programs representing the culture of Carmel at the city-owned Forest Theater during the summer months; secondly, paneling and painting the council chambers at city hall for a memorial art museum.

In 1962, she hopes pictures already on display in the council chambers will be increased by gifts of more paintings and works of art by Carmel artists of the past, thus establishing a complete record of the community's artistic history in the memorial museum.

Charles E. Myrick, chairman of the Carmel Forestry Commission, hopes this group will be able to complete the reforestation program of the city in 1962, and plant trees along city streets not reforested this year. Although the city's tree-planting program on public rights of way is advanced, according to Mr. Myrick, he wants it finished so that it may be evaluated and further city reforestation plans made, if necessary.

The planting of the center strip on Junipero Street in the business district, he thinks is the forestry commission's most satisfactory accomplishment of 1961. Although the project is not completed, all approved parts of the total plan have been finished. Mr. Myrick is particularly proud of the Junipero planting as it had been passed over for years.

Perry Newberry Park was the Carmel Recreation Commission's greatest accomplishment in 1961. Chairman August Nieto is proud and happy to announce. He appreciates the help the recreation commission received with this project from the Carmel Rotary Club, city officials and the Seniors Club.

In 1962, Mr. Nieto wants to see completion of the Perry Newberry Park adult recreation facilities. At present it has shuffleboard courts and horseshoe throws. These are being used by many persons, according to Mr. Nieto.

Asked what he wanted for the Carmel Fire Department in 1962, Fire Chief Robert Smith snapped, "No fires." Additional fire hydrants in a number of locations would help his men fight any fires if they do occur in the coming year, he added. He would also like city council approval for sending both volunteer and paid members of the fire department for in-service training sessions in Los Angeles and San Francisco. "Actually," concluded Chief Smith, "Santa Claus was good to us and the fire department hasn't too much to ask in 1962."

The increased training program for officers was the best fire department contribution to the city in 1961, Chief Smith's opinion. This included inspections and in one instance, Pine Inn, recommendations made following an officer training inspection were carried out by the Inn and later prevented the spread of a linen closet fire on the premises. The regular training program for all department members included more material and this benefitted the city also, Chief Smith pointed out.

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann, in 1962, wants more parking lots in the business district.

"Traffic is the police department's biggest problem and there is no relief in sight," he emphasized, "parking lots would help cure our headaches," he concluded.

Chief Klaumann admitted his next request for the new year is a dream, "I would like a new police station," he said hopefully.

Mrs. Ruth Galvin Thornburg, chief librarian at the city's Harrison Memorial Library says that in 1962 she would like to have more room... for patrons of the reading room, for reference books and in the stacks. She would also like a regulated heating system.

"Now," said Mrs. Thornburg, "persons have cold feet in the reading room while its hot enough on the balcony to fry eggs on the floor."

The library's chief contributions to life in Carmel in 1961 were, one, earlier morning opening hours (10:00 o'clock) so that persons can come to the library at the same time as they pick up the morning mail at the post office. Second contribution, Mrs. Thornburg lists as the picture file now being completed. This file has elaborate coordinate indexing which enables library patrons to find even a specified part of a picture on file in the library. Lastly, Mrs. Thornburg points with pride to the library science instruction for junior high school students started this year by Mrs. Everett Heisinger, children's librarian. Students come to the library and receive instruction that will enable them never to be lost in any library, Mrs. Thornburg rejoiced. "It's been a wonderful year for the library," she concluded and referred to the library's gift of the estate of the late Austin James.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams listed three things he would like to see happen in 1962. First, he wants the citizens to elect two fine councilmen in April; second, Mr. Adams wants the city to develop and improve the Forest Theater and have real community participation and patronage in the use of the city-owned theater; third, he wants the planning commission and city council to work in harmony to provide "Carmel" solutions for the planning, zoning and parking problems of the city.

The finest thing that happened in Carmel in 1961, Mr. Adams said, was the Stuart Highlanders bagpipe concert at the Forest Theater. This free Sunday afternoon event had the audience crowded into trees. Hundreds of townspeople also paraded up Ocean Avenue behind the pipes to the theater and back down again after the program.
